18th Services wins 4th Air Force award

By Staff Sgt. Jason Lake
18th Wing Public Affairs

The sounds of sirens, cheers and clapping filled the Kadena Officers Club July 15 when Brig. Gen. Jan-Marc Jouas told the hundreds of 18th Services Squadron workers there that they had won eight out of 19 Air Force awards and, for the fourth time, the coveted General Curtis LeMay award.

Each year, Air Force Services recognizes the best overall services units with the LeMay award. Kadena won the large base category. Likewise, the competition judges excellence in 21 programs and 19 individual categories for units and people that demonstrate the best leadership, management, customer focus and operational results.

The eight categories 18th SVS dominated this year are 'bests' in: officers club; protocol office; information, tickets and travel program; child development centers; golf complex; human resource office; marketing department; and training program.

Lt. Col. Guy Palumbo, who took over as 18th SVS commander last month, complimented the staff for their hard work and dedication.

"It's great that I got to come into this squadron on this kind of note," he said. "My job as the unit commander is to get obstacles out of the way and let these fine people do what they need to do so that customers can get the best service."

Highlights from each award winning program include:

Officers Club

- Club staff catered to more than 140 special functions with more than 4,000 buffet items.
- "Domo Days" campaign saved customers more than $65,000 in discounts on all food entrees.

- Named best in Pacific Air Forces for fourth consecutive year.

ITT Program

- Conducted nearly 550 local cultural tours, 75 private tours and 100 base mission tours for more than 32,000 customers.
- Staff booked more than 15,000 airline, car and hotel reservations.
- Rated best in PACAF with an 86 percent customer satisfaction rating.

Child Development Centers

- Nurtured more than 900 children, ages six week to six years, on a daily basis.
- Annual parent survey reflected 95.8 percent satisfaction with staff services.
- More than 150 staff members volunteered more than 2,000 hours during base and community events.

Golf Complex

- Only Air Force golf facility with state-of-the-art computer instructional system used by 1,000 students.
- Staff saved $200,000 on greens maintenance through self-help project to install salt-water friendly grass.
- Hosted more than 93,000 rounds of golf.

Human Resources Office

- Processed 4,092 nonappropriated fund personnel actions with 719 new hires.
- Honored 355 employees at quarterly and annual award ceremonies, handing out some 365 performance awards, 129 on-the-spot cash awards and 112 local national performance awards.

- Revamped a performance award process to level the playing field; decreased cost of total awards granted by 9 percent while increasing the monetary value to employees by 13 percent.

Kadena holds memorial service for crew chief

Base officials will hold a memorial service today at 4 p.m. in Chapel 3 for a crew chief who died Sunday near

WILKINSON

Nago. Senior Airman Matthew W. Wilkinson of the 18th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron, died Sunday when he lost control of his motorcycle at about 9 a.m. on Highway 329 on the north end of the island, according to published reports.

Airman Wilkinson was transported to a local Japanese hospital where he was pronounced dead.

The Airman is Kadena's second motorcycle-related fatality in the last year. In December 2004 a staff sergeant assigned to the 718th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron lost control of his motorcycle near Yomitan Village. According to Okinawan reports, Airman Wilkinson's accident, which did not involve alcohol, is the second military fatality in Nago this year, and local police are asking service members to use caution when driving in the area. Airman Wilkinson is survived by a wife and child.

Medics reiterate effects of heat injuries

By Master Sgt.
Adam Johnston
18th Wing Public Affairs

Kadena medics say heat stress injuries are very common this time of the year, and may provide little to no warning.

"If someone collapses around here the first thing you should suspect is heat stroke," said Col. (Dr.) Walter Cayce, 18th Aerospace Medicine Squadron commander. "Especially if you are working in a hot environment. A key to combating heat stress injuries is prevention, but some will still occur," said Colonel Cayce. "If someone drops to the ground as if they were shot, it's vital to initiate self aid/buddy care and to call 911," he said.

During the base exercise in May, medics say 67 percent of the visits to the hydration station were related to heat injuries. "If a troop collapses or acts mentally disoriented during the upcoming LORE, think heat injury," he said.

Colonel Cayce said cooling a victim by removing their clothing, placing them near a fan or cool mist, or transporting them into an air conditioned environment is also important in treating heat stress. Last year a Marine on Okinawa died from injuries related to heat stress.

DEALING WITH THE HEAT

Medics say the following heat stress symptoms occur when the body can't reduce the heat load as it tries to prevent organ damage.

• HEAT CRAMPS: muscle twitch/spasm, muscle pain.

• HEAT EXHAUSTION: weakness, fatigue, nausea, vomiting, dizziness.

• HEAT STROKE: mental status changes, sweating can occur, elevated body temperature.

Another tragic loss at Kadena

By Brig. Gen.
Jan-Marc Jouas
18th Wing commander

Last Sunday the 18th Wing lost Senior Airman Matthew Wilkinson -- an F-15 crew chief, husband, and father -- as a result of a tragic motorcycle accident near Nago. While this is a terrible loss to Team Kadena and our Air Force, it doesn't begin to compare to the pain being felt by his wife, 16-month-old son, and parents.

On Monday we suspended flight operations to give his co-workers in the 18th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron the time to process this loss; to talk to counselors and friends, and to help support each other. Tuesday we were back to the important business of generating and launching airplanes to ensure the combat readiness of the wing -- as a proud Airman and maintainer, I think Matt would have wanted it that way.

The Air Force has exceeded the summer-long fatality rates of the past three years, and we still have six weeks to go until Labor Day. We must do all we can at Kadena to help avoid another tragic accident, and add again to this sad list.

As we continue through the summer, get off base and enjoy the island, we must keep safety in the forefront and take care of our wingmen. This tragedy, and those like it throughout the Air Force, show just how fragile life is, and how quickly we can go from a beautiful day to one filled with heartache. This has been an especially difficult summer for the Air Force as a whole -- Airman Wilkinson is the 19th safety-related Air Force fatality since Memorial Day -- the fifth involving a motorcycle. The Air Force has exceeded the summer-long fatality rates of the past three years, and we still have six weeks to go until Labor Day. We must do all we can at Kadena to help avoid another tragic accident, and add again to this sad list.

On the job, we perform difficult and sometimes dangerous tasks, and as such I need every Airman and civilian to exercise smart operational risk management (ORM) by following technical orders, exercising common sense, and providing oversight and guidance to their wingmen...especially by correcting mistakes or dangerous practices on the spot.

Increased off the job risks during this time of year is why we call the period between Memorial Day and Labor Day the "101 Critical Days of Summer." Of the 19 losses this summer, 11 have been from off-duty motor vehicle accidents, and another four from off-duty sporting or recreational activity. Just as we stress ORM on the job, we must always apply Personal Risk Management off the job, and remember that being a wingman is a 24/7 responsibility we all carry. It's not enough to say, "Follow the tech orders and have a nice weekend." We all need to be saying, "Follow the tech orders...and be safe this weekend." We need to ask questions like, "What are you planning?", and then follow-up aggressively to ensure our folks have not only a plan, but a safe plan -- including all the necessary equipment. We must do our part to ensure we've done all we can to keep ourselves and our people safe. Our goal is zero mishaps -- on and off the job.

ACTION LINES

E-mail: 18wg.actionline@kadena.af.mil

The 18th Wing is very interested in ideas that can make Kadena an even better place to live, work and play. If you have a concern that you have been unable to resolve through normal chains of command, then we'll look into it. Although not required, it's better to give commanders, first sergeants or the agencies with which you have the concern the opportunity to correct the situation first. When that fails, send us an e-mail. Include your name and telephone number so someone can get back to you, and a brief summary of your concern.

Movie ratings

I was wondering what the rules are here on Kadena for children going to the movies. In the states, children have to be within certain age ranges to get into different rated movies and these rules are enforced. But here I frequently see children under age 5 at "R" rated movies. While they might not be old enough to understand all of what is going on in the movie, they are distracting to other movie goers. I was at a movie last night that is rated "PG-13" for 'sequences of violence, intense action, sexual content and brief strong language' (as quoted off the reason of rating on the movie's webpage). While I was attempting to enjoy the movie, I was distracted, as well as many others around me, by a child about 4 years old who cried and screamed for several minutes at a time many times during the movie. I feel like I wasn't able to fully enjoy the movie and not hear all parts of it because of this child.

For the enjoyment of all movie-goers, can't something be done about parents bringing young children into movies that aren't suited for them to see?

Thanks for your question and concern. The movie rating system at Kadena, as in the States, is designed to provide parents/guardians age-related guidelines on what may or may not be suitable viewing for their children. For example, an "R" rating means that children under the age of 17 should not be admitted unless accompanied by an adult. The key is that the parent/guardian is responsible for what the child is allowed to view. Parents/guardians are also responsible for a child's conduct during the movie. If an adult chooses to bring their child to the movie, AAFES does not have a policy to restrict their access in any way nor, in the case of a crying child, to ask the patron to leave the theater. I don't agree with those policies, and have personally asked the PACAF AAFES Commander to ask AAFES Headquarters to establish a policy restricting R-rated movies completely for young children, and to give AAFES movie employees the authority to remove patrons who cause a disturbance. They have not responded yet, and so in the meantime we need all parents/guardians who bring children to a movie to be considerate of the other theater patrons. Better yet -- leave young children with a babysitter -- an R-rated movie is not the place for them.

It has been...

SHOGUN WARRIOR OF THE WEEK

Airman 1st Class Jonathan Marcoux

718th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron, electronic warfare system apprentice
Hometown: Monrovia, Md.

Reason for nomination: Airman Marcoux has shown unwavering commitment to excellence as the data integrity team leader. For his efforts, he was recognized as having the best statistics in April.

Time at Kadena: 1 years, 8 months

Editor's note: Shogun Warriors are selected by unit leaders for their outstanding value to their unit and dedication to the Kadena mission. To nominate someone, send the name of your nominee to your unit commander or senior enlisted leaders.

DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE: Did you know--Binge drinking is considered five drinks in a row for men, and four for women?

ENERGY CONSERVATION TIP: Limit electricity usage during the peak hours of 1 to 4 p.m. This timeframe is when the base gets billed the most. Plan to use household energy-intensive appliances such as dishwashers, dryers and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to reduce cost.

LIMITED SERVICES: Starting Monday, the Kadena Tax Center staff will only provide services on an appointment-only basis. To make an appointment, e-mail tax.center@kadena.af.mil. Walk-in service will resume during the next tax season in January. For more information, call 634-3309.

BONE MARROW REGISTRATION DRIVE: There will be a bone marrow registration drive at the Schilling Community Center Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, call 634-5688.

WATER OUTAGE: There will be a base-wide (including Chibana sports facilities) water outage Tuesday between 10 p.m. and approximately 6 a.m. Wednesday. After a broken valve is replaced, water will remain undrinkable until bioenvironmental tests prove otherwise (typically 24 hours). During the unpotable period, boil water for five minutes before consumption. There will be water buffalos set up at the three child development centers, Johnson Dining Facility, Risner Fitness Center and commissary parking lot.

SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN: The Survivor Benefit Plan was developed to meet the financial needs of a family following a servicemember's death. SBP is a non-profit annuity program administered by the government. Coverage is free while servicemembers remain on active duty. After retirement, monthly premiums are held in the military retirement system trust fund and benefits are paid to eligible survivors. Prior to retiring, servicemembers can enroll by calling 634-3228.

PET QUARANTINE: In-bound Defense Department employees to Okinawa may quarantine their pets in on-base quarters.

In June the rules on importing pets into Japan changed and military officials have been working clarifications of the change with Japanese officials.

If pet-owners don't live on base, pets will have to be quarantined at Karing Kennels or in Naha.

Karing Kennels typically fills fast, and housing a pet in Naha is not cost-effective. While the Naha facility costs approximately $30 a day, the pet owner has to provide full care with feeding twice daily, and it quickly becomes cost prohibitive based on the hour-long drive to and from the facility.

It is recommended that pet owners not living on base who are trying to bring their pets to Japan have them kenneled in the U.S. to help reduce the new quarantine time.

Complete rules on the new restrictions are available at: <http://www.usarj.army.mil/orga/nization/vet/prm.pdf>.

POSTAL ADVISORY: Postal customers are advised not to have fresh fruits or pornographic materials (magazines, videotapes, devices, etc.) sent to them by businesses, family or friends.

These items are not allowed entry into Japan through the military postal service. Japanese customs officials examine incoming mail daily in accordance with the SOFA. Recently, there has been a rash of confiscated items. When this occurs, the sender will be notified by the air mail terminal postal officials. If you have any questions, please call 634-3266.

JUNKING VEHICLES: All personnel junking vehicles--not including motorcycles and trailers--must pay the Japanese recycle fee. Any initial or re-registration (JCI) of a vehicle will pay the recycling fee, good for the life of the vehicle. All currently-owned vehicles up for re-registration and initial registration must have proof of payment of the fee. Visit the Joint Services Vehicle Registration Office to pay, or call 645-7148/3963 for more details.

ESTATE CLAIMS: Anyone with a claim against the estate of Senior Airman Matthew W. Wilkinson should contact 1st Lt. Brian S. Reaser at 632-5047 or 090-9784-7685.

Air Force/Staff Sgt. Chyrece Campbell Base officials have placed new signs for drivers to reduce speed near the Air Force official running track to reduce incidents when runners are present. This new safety measure is due to the increase in people running along Jenkins Road.

Seatbelts save lives!

Courtesy photo

The wreckage of a car driven by Capt. Jeff Percy, 67th Fighter Squadron, sits in an Alabama parking lot. Captain Percy and his wife, Janelle, were traveling north on a two-lane U.S. route, just south of Montgomery, on July 4 when another vehicle moved into their lane without warning. The Percys were forced off the road, their car skidded into a ditch, then rolled multiple times, finally hitting a group of trees and coming to rest upside-down. The airbags did not deploy. The vehicle was so severely damaged that witnesses and emergency response teams thought there were no survivors. The seatbelts, however, not only saved their lives, but kept them free from serious injury.

Jeremy Downs and Dan Lehoski, both of the 44th Fighter Squadron, also flew in the formation.

The Okinawa Perspective

□ The Naha District Prosecutor's Office indicted a Kadena Airman July 25 on charges of indecent assault and trespassing. Although the Airman is acknowledging that he was at the scene, he is denying the assault.

□ Kadena announced the start of a liberty card program here July 22. The program imposes liberty restrictions on all junior Airmen and a majority of senior airmen. A similar program has been conducted by the U.S. Marine Corps since June 2004. This is the first time Kadena has introduced such a program. Kadena senior officials had declared a curfew on July 8, following an indecent assault involving a local school girl.

□ According to published reports, approximately 10,000 people participated in the Okinawa Prefectural mass rally held in Kin Town July 19 to demand the immediate closure and removal of the U.S. Army's Range 4 warfare training facility, in addition to the full withdrawal of all U.S. military installations from the Igei district. Fifteen incidents of stray bullets, flares, shells and shrapnel have been reported in the Igei district since the end of World War II, according to the Okinawa Times, including one in which a teenage girl was shot in her thigh by a stray rifle bullet in 1964.

□ Four U.S. Marine AV-8B Harriers arrived at Kadena July 20, marking the first time the aircraft have been seen at Kadena for more than a year. The aircraft is well-known for its high percentage of accidents; a Harrier crashed into a Yuma, Arizona, residential area in June.

□ Okinawan leaders returned July 21 from a trip to the United States, during which they asked U.S. government officials to relocate Marine Corps Air Station Futenma. The Ginowan City mayor, who traveled with the Okinawa delegation, said, "I received the impression that we will soon have a response regarding the return of Futenma." He also said that U.S. Marines in the United States have established positive relationships with communities, and that they should take similar actions here on Okinawa.

AWARDS: Services cleans up

Marketing Department

- Used more than 70 percent of American Forces Network advertisement time through radio and TV promotions to reach more than 70,000 customers.

- Managed Las Vegas-style marquee on Douglas Boulevard that targeted more than 50,000 commuters 24 hours-per-day.

- Created Kadena's Services TV channel that runs 12 hours a day, 365 days a year on 13 military installations.

Protocol Office

- Orchestrated training program for team members working out of normal Air Force specialties to ensure task certification.

- Provided 8,000 personnel in five groups support for 83 events while providing quality control over 1,100 pages of event scripts.

- Created Kadena's first Protocol 101 course targeting several on-base seminars reaching more than 352 students with hands-on training.

Training Program

- Completely revitalized New Employee Orientation by opening each class with senior SVS leadership to solidify "employees are number one" concept.

- Instituted "interactive" student-centered training approach which boosted course ratings from 87 percent to 93 percent.

- Introduced prototype leadership courses; the first and only squadron in PACAF to conduct leadership training in Japanese.

Among individual category winners were:

Civilian Flight Chief

- George Jones, chief of the business operations support flight with 18th SVS who won the Air Force Services Civilian Flight Chief of the Year.

Company Grade Officer

- Capt. Keithen A. Washington, combat support flight commander with 18th SVS who won the Air Force Services Company Grade Officer of the Year.

Noncommissioned Officer

- Tech Sgt. Michael Ji, formerly of the 18th SVS, now assigned to Osan Air Base, South Korea, who won the Air Force Services NCO of the Year.

Airman

- Senior Airman Sara J. Higgins, a food service production chef who won the Air Force Services Airman of the Year.

Editor's Note: A complete story on the individual category winners is scheduled to appear in next week's The Kadena Shogun.
